Mrs. Lizzie Starnes, sister of the slain man and her daughter, Mrs. Charles Chapman, are lodged in the jail here under suspicion of committing or being implicated in the crime. They and the seven-month-old baby of Mrs. Chapman were the only occupants of the house in addition to the murdered man. They claim to know nothing of the crime and not even to have heard the shot. What the Irish Fight Is About

Sir Edward Carson is at the head of an agitation against home rule among the Unionists of Ulster. He and several other leading men took the initiative in organizing an army of Ulster volunteers to resist the introduction of home rule for Ireland in its entirety. They insisted that Ulster should be left out of its operation. Carson says he can raise an army of 100,000 men.

The chief point at issue is the religious one. Of a population of about 4,500,000, approximately 100,000 are Protestants. Most of them are found in the four Ulster counties. The other three counties are predominantly Catholic. Not all the Protestants of Ireland are against home rule. Jernell himself was a Protestant.

Advertising Talk

By William C. Freeman

thought and said that advertisements were not worth reading—that there was little dignity or truth in them.

Advertising was tolerated because the Business Manager told them there was not enough revenue received from the sales of the newspaper to make it a commercial success.

They sneered at advertising and advertising men. They felt themselves way above commercial pursuits. They were very ethical gentlemen, just like many professional men of the present day. When their own names were printed in some newspaper they were tickled to death—just as many lawyers and doctors of the present day seek publicity that they like very much, but are horrified when they are told that they should advertise and pay for it.

Well, A CHANGE has come over editors and special writers. They NOW READ ADVERTISEMENTS and evince the greatest interest in them.

Every writer I know shows a very keen interest in the advertising pages—not only that, they pass along to THE ADVERTISING WORKERS SOME MIGHTY GOOD SUGGESTIONS.

Likewise, they are keenly alive to THE CHARACTER of the advertisements printed. They do not want to see a suspicious advertisement in the paper. They are really becoming as interested and as particular about advertisements as the workers in the advertising department.

They co-operate with us in making up the pages of the paper so as to give the advertisements a chance to shine along with the news. IF EDITORS AND WRITERS READ ADVERTISEMENTS, I AM SURE THERE IS NOBODY LEFT IN THE WORLD THAT DOES NOT READ THEM.

ARNOLD RETURNS
Attorney Fletcher H. Arnold, of the Frank defense, returned to Atlanta on Saturday afternoon after a visit to Washington and New York, and important developments in the Frank case are expected to follow his return.

While Mr. Arnold did not make the case of Leo M. Frank, it is known that the other attorney's defense have awaited his return to make certain important moves in the case. New and sensational affidavits from witnesses at the trial and people who might have been without had they been found before the factory superintendent faced the jury, are said to be in the hands of the defense, and it will make them public.

Frank, although seen daily by many newspapermen, has not given an interview during the week, preferring to answer every letter and every question while the case is still at work on the case. Frank is being kept in the country home he has never known. Many of them sympathize with the prisoner, but they have no question about the case.

Practically all the questions asked him are the same as the ones he has repeatedly answered in the newspapers.

ANSWERS LETTERS
Despite this fact, however, Frank is trying to answer every letter and every question. As a result he is quite busy with his bulky correspondence. He is now about 50 letters behind, but expects to catch up in the next few days. Atlanta's Development depends largely on the encouragement which the people give its banking institutions, and, in turn, on the support which its banks give to the business enterprises of the city.

WHO ARE THE MONEY MAKERS?

You will say the big rich men whose names are known to everybody. Not so. Many large enterprises are financed by the savings of clerks, work people—the masses who deposit part of their income in savings banks. Trace every fortune to its source and you will find it founded upon the savings of the thrifty—the faculty members had of laying aside persistently a portion of their income, and investing it with judgment and foresight.

ATLANTA NEEDS MORE SAVERS!

THE SOUTH NEEDS MORE SAVERS:
The amount of savings deposits per capita for the United States is $71.00, and for each geographical section is as follows:

richia. The warmth, the good overwintering, the future wealth. The living in leisurely ease, the millionaires. But you know you're in line for $5,000 to $10,000 in the next recession. The local markets assure you of a cash for everything you grow. For your leisure time there is good hunting, fishing, swimming; and all the year round a healthy, equable climate that makes life worth living.

Wausau is not a rich, so fertile, so productive—the climate and the land make it so. But the home company of bankers behind it guarantees your satisfaction. Mr. Edgar Hoffmeyer, our President, has been in Eastern Tennessee, and for years has been clearing the way for you.

If you haven't nerve to go to the bank for a loan, we can place you in no place for you. We can place you in a real future, you can be what a wonder here. These bankers guarantee your land. You have a year to inspect your plot. You can take a vacation of it. You'll be taken all over this region in an automobile. You can talk to grove owners. In-quire about the state of the state. You can see your income. And then, if you're not satisfied, every cent of your money will be returned with six per cent interest.

Lots Lots Lots

Virginia Ave. Lots

WE HAVE a few Virginia avenue lots for sale at rock bottom prices. To everyone buying a lot from us during the coming week, or until April 1st, we will give with each lot enough nice stone and enough brick to build your house with, provided you build at once.

Reason For Giving Material

ONE REASON for giving away this material is that we have an army of men now getting out the stone for the purpose of leveling up a piece of property, and we want this stone out of our way. We also have several thousand foundation brick on the ground. We will even haul this material and place it on your lot. If you want to build your entire house of stone it will cost you nothing. Not a cent—and hauling free. What more do you want?

Virginia Ave. Corner Lot

AT THE CORNER of Virginia avenue, Highland avenue and the Todd road, a perfect lot, 120 feet front, for $3,600. Some terms. A dandy place for four apartments. Get a home here and an apartment at the same time. Live in one, rent out the other three and have an income of $150 per month. It can be done. Your stone costs you nothing. You brick costs you nothing. It's time to act now.

Woodland Hills

WE HAVE forty mules pulling dirt every day in Woodland Hills. Our tile man will be on the job Tuesday morning. The lots are ready for sale. $12.50 per foot; dead easy terms. Some of the lots are 425 feet deep. They will bring $40 per foot in three years. Figure your profits.

Apartment Site

THE FINEST apartment site in Atlanta today; nothing else like it; because it's the only corner in Piedmont Park. Lot 134x180 feet, at the corner of Twelfth and Piedmont avenue. Brings in a nice rent now, but think of the future! You have two fronts on Piedmont Park, one front on Piedmont avenue and one front on Twelfth street. Everything is front, front, front! Your apartments can face the Park and lake. A lot dug out of Piedmont Park is what it is. The price is away down. The lot will make two apartments.

Atlanta Avenue Homes

WE HAVE SOLD one of our Atlanta avenue homes, and almost have another one sold. We have three more. $3,750; $500 cash, $25 a month. Go out and look at 119 Atlanta avenue, and 121. They will interest you. Only ten minutes on the Capitol avenue car into town.

Piedmont Avenue Lots

YES, WE HAVE lots on Piedmont avenue at $30 per foot. They are beautiful now. Easy terms.

Peachtree Road,

650 FEET on Peachtree road, at Piedmont avenue, at $35 per foot. Yes, sir! Right on old Peachtree road! Wouldn't this make a dandy apartment? 650 feet wide. It's a big bargain.

W. E. WORLEY

$100,000 WHITEHALL STORE FOR $30,000

BETWEEN HUNTER AND MITCHELL.

Many an investor had the chance to buy it, but didn't. They got sorry TOO LATE.

YOU HAVE A SIMILAR OPPORTUNITY TODAY ON BROAD STREET

TWO BLOCKS of Whitehall street contain the entire shopping district, in which a spool of thread or a bolt of cloth can be bought by the class of buyers who trade there. THIS WAS TRUE WHEN ATLANTA had 75,000 people. IT'S STILL TRUE with 200,000 population. And still the same two blocks are trying to take care of the trade.

IT CAN'T GO ON FOREVER. THE VAST, STEADY INCREASE MUST FIND MORE ROOM.

IS THE shopping district liable to divide into two separate districts? Or is it most liable to spread out from its present center. As a shopper, what place is more natural for YOU to go than South Broad street?

IT MUST extend OUT Whitehall or AROUND into Broad. It MAY DO BOTH, but which will it do FIRST?

HALF the Whitehall Shopping District is on Broad street RIGHT NOW. The produce business heretofore made the use of this fronting impossible. They have gone, and ALREADY the Whitehall Merchants are using their Broad street fronts, and BOASTING ABOUT IT.

South Broad has ALREADY STARTED as a shopping street. NOTHING CAN STOP IT NOW. And the present offer of $1,200 per foot, will look ridiculous in a few months.

Wait for bargains, but DON'T "OVERWAIT." Maybe you "overwaited" on Whitehall. Isn't experience worth Something?

REMEMBER

THE $100,000 Whitehall street store once sold for $30,000, and everybody had a chance to buy it, and only a few did.

there is ONLY ONE BROAD STREET STORE AT THIS PRICE. When it's gone

AN OPPORTUNITY

When a bargain in real estate is offered there are always certain conditions that are brought to light, which the investor must make up his mind as to whether he will accept or not. If these conditions were not of a general nature, the property would never be offered at anything like the present price.

The present who always must stand in these trades are the ones who size up these conditions and they are worth and take advantage of them.

We are offering for $1,200 an unusually nice lot on lot 170 feet. This house is between Duane de laun avenue and North avenue in North Boulevard.

Auburn Avenue Investment

LOTS RUNS through the block to Old West street, which will cost $200 per month. Near corner of Jackson street we offer on lease a lot of 100x150 feet, on lot 100x150 feet. Consider the street that will cost $200 per month. The lot is 100x150 feet, the fact that it runs along the block, that it can be easily subdivided if so desired, the steady income and the one advantage in value. Price, $2,700. Terms.

Peachtree Home At Less Than Its Value

NEAR Fourteenth street, we offer one of Atlanta's best homes, built by J. W. Adams. The lot runs through the block to Peachtree street. This house is between Duane de laun avenue and North avenue in North Boulevard. If you will phone our office we will be glad to give particulars.

MAKE CAIN'S WIFE A WHALE.

The fellow who wants to have his wife a whale and does not wish to give his wife the services of the church generally hunts up a whale and puts it between himself and God. Some have actually made a whale out of Cain's wife and you hear them saying, "Tell me who Cain's wife was and I will accompany her to the grave."

your religion." Such a man appears to the minds of sensible people about as intelligent as the one who would refuse to accept the gift of the house and lot because the owner would not tell him how God had created out of nothing the ground on which it stood and how he had made the wood from which the house was constructed out of a little seed which had in years past fallen into the ground. What difference would the knowledge of who Cain's wife was make in the whole story of the Bible?

WHALES.
By a miraculous power, known only themselves, many have filled our churches with whales. The name of the church member is "conscientious church member." You hear them say, "I can't ford to join the church because there are too many hypocrites there." Gazing at these whales they fail to be the Great God who is over behind them and from whose hand untold blessings fall into their lives. There was a man of whom Jesus spoke who stood in a prominent place in the temple and drinking his liquor said unto heaven, praising God that he was no church member.

than other men by whom he was surrounded. The fellow who is gazing at the inconsistent church member while he is putting the Pharisees' lamp upon his own soul and is proclaiming that he is too good to associate with inconsistent people.

I recently met such a man who was in the clothing business and who made two excuses to me. He asked him to go right after all the other clothing merchants in his town were honest.

He replied with some warmth that he knew several of them were rascals.

He asked him then why he didn't get cut of the clothing business, so that he would at least be consistent. Up to this writing he has not answered the question.

JESUS DEALT WITH THESE WHALES.

When I hear a man talking about the inconsistent people about him I remember that Jesus had whales like this in his company. When he was talking to Peter to ask of his unfaithful conduct and was telling him to get to work in feeding the sheep and the lambs, John was walking behind them. Turning, Peter pointed to him and said,

JAP ADOPT U. S. BOY

DETROIT, Mich., March 21.—Probate Judge Hawley refused to permit Ito Tomomura, a wealthy and educated Japanese, to adopt an American orphan boy.

There is too great a difference between your race and that of the boy," said the court. "The child would have to call you 'father,' and I believe this could cause him humiliation." Kotsomura declared he would appeal to the federal courts.

NEARLY A HUNDRED APARTMENT HOUSES HERE, RANGING IN COST FROM $500,000 ON DOWN

Starting With Bachelor Quarters, the Present-Day Apartment House is as Luxurious and Convenient as a Hotel—Owners of Expensive Homes Sell and Use the Proceeds in their Business, Finding Rent Cheaper Than Maintenance of Home—Housekeeping Simplified

In Atlanta there are apartment houses ranging from the ten-story $500,000 Ponce de Leon to the remodeled two-story frame house, and most of them are rented, even a small apartment house, ment houses are as elaborate as the hotels. Some have refrigeration plants, with telephones in each apartment, with dry laundry plants, roof gardens and cafes, separate entrances a large proportion of the apartment house of Atlanta, but it is fairly typical of the various styles.

Sell Homes to Move To Apartment Houses.

Besides the convenience, apart-bed is coming too, as well as the combination room and sleeping porch.

From the standpoint of the owner, the apartment house is still a paying proposition, even after the fuel and light bills and the janitor are paid.

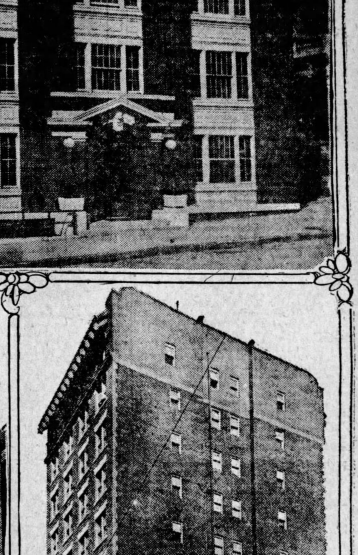

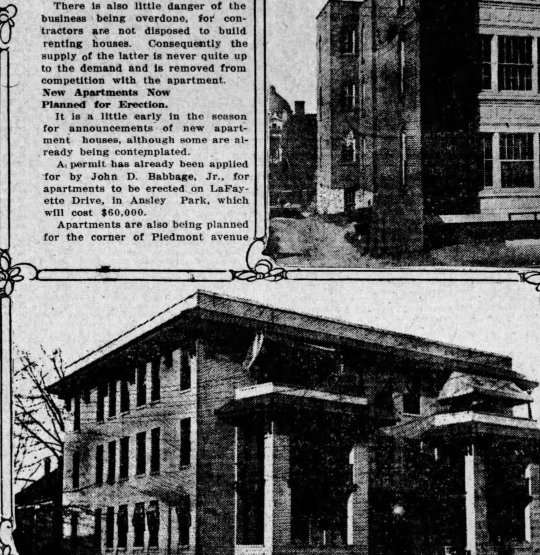

There is also little danger of the business being overdone, for contractors are not disposed to build renting houses. Consequently the supply of the latter is never quite up to the demand and is removed from competition with the apartment.

New Apartments Now Planned for Erection.

It is a little early in the season for announcements of new apartment houses, although some are already being contemplated.

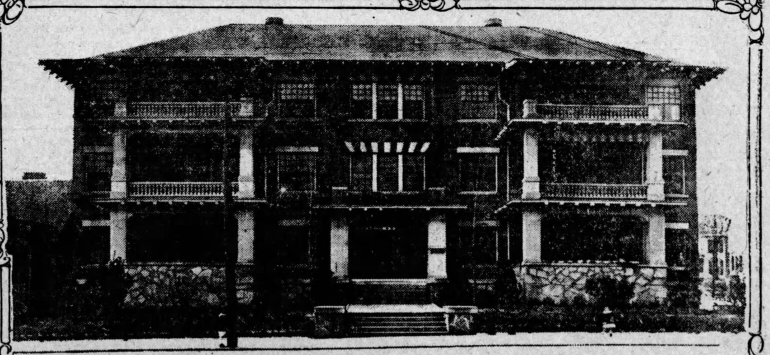

A permit has already been applied for by John D. Babbage, Jr., for apartments to be erected on LaFayette Drive, in Ansley Park, which will cost $50,000.

Apartment houses are also being planned for the corner of Piedmont avenue

Top picture, left, the Ponce de Leon, a luxurious type in the $500,000 class; top, on the right, the Berkeley, a bachelor apartment house; in the middle, the Wickliffe, a ten-story bachelor's home; adjoining this the Wickliffe, the ten-story bachelor's home; adjoining this the Wickliffe, the ten-story bachelor's home; adjoining this the Wickliffe, the ten-story bachelor's home.

with only three or four apartments, represents as many houses all under one roof.

The servant problem, coupled with the desirability of steam heat and the various other conveniences, have made apartments convenient. The big apartment houses now have their own cafes, where the tenants go when the servant doesn't show up the morning after her day off.

The city directory contains the names of ninety-five apartment houses, most of which are unfamiliar to the average Atlantian, although he might have seen the buildings in passing.

Started With Quarters For Atlanta Bachelors.

The apartment house is a comparatively new departure. The first apartment house was designed for bachelors and later on dating investors built for families.

Steam heat was the big inducement then, and this was considered to be the last word in up-to-date-houses. Owners, however, vied with each other to such an extent, that many luxuries were added from time to time, until now the big apartments are much cheaper to live in than an expensive house.

A man who owns a $20,000 home is put to a considerable expense to keep it up, especially if his lot is large. His insurance and taxes and depreciation are other items he must figure on, to say nothing of the interest on his investment.

Selling his home, however, he can use the proceeds in his business, and rent an apartment at a cost less than would be required to keep his home going.

The great appeal to women, however, is the convenience of the apartment. Everything is on one floor, and the heat and lights are supplied. The endless detail of housekeeping outlay is done away with. All the various charges are covered in one lump sum of rent.

Tendency to Smaller Size of Apartments.

The tendency among apartment house builders now is to smaller apartments—apartments of from three to five rooms, designed to meet the needs of small families.

The wall arrangement to accommodate the disappearance of the and fourteenth street, facing Piedmont park. A feature of this building is the fact that members of the contracting company will have their own specially constructed apartments.

Several smaller buildings, containing two to four apartments, are either under construction or will be shortly.

Building Code's Effect On Apartment Safety.

In the pioneer days of apartment house building, builders might go three stories with lumber or brick veneer construction.

This was changed, however, as the city grew in size and the danger of fire in congested quarters became greater. Such buildings now are limited to two stories and to certain dimensions.

The wall arrangement to accommodate the disappearance of the people who will own their own homes and who will take a sentimental interest in them.

As already pointed out, the house built to rent is disappearing, and where it is offered in a good section, and in good repair, as much rent is demanded, except in the cheapest types, as the corresponding apartment.

For this reason the apartment house will hardly outgrow the tenant demand in a city which is growing as rapidly as Atlanta.

A big industrial plant will soon locate in Atlanta, bringing with it a force of 600 people. Say that 300 of these have families. That means 300 new houses or apartments.

A small proportion will buy homes, but the rest will rent. The chances are that a large proportion of those seeking quarters will lease an apartment.

Other concerns locate in Atlanta from time to time during the year, and they also bring their forces with them.

Atlanta has not yet reached the point where the very cheap apartment house is being built, although that will come in time. There are two or three family apartments whose rental is about on the cottage basis, but the big building, rising high in the air, has not as yet arrived.

It will come, however, as the city grows denser in population, and it will be in sections close in, where the saving of carefree is an object.

Here the utilization of space and the installation of labor saving devices will reach their highest development.

Swimmers Ask That Bathing Season Open A Month Earlier

A PETITION was circulated last week asking the park board to open Piedmont Park lake for public bathing a month earlier this year.

This petition soon will be presented to the board in order that it may be acted on at once and a definite date set for the opening of the spring bathing season.

The petitioners contend that they have over a hundred names signed to their request and that by the middle of this week they will have four or five hundred, enough to show the board that the desire to use Piedmont Lake earlier than usual is general.

At a recent meeting of the board May 15 was set as the date for Piedmont's opening. The board also has made a ruling that the lake will be open at night for bathing by men and boys and that all bathing suits must have sleeves reaching from the shoulder midway to the elbow.

The petitioners protest that the latter part of April is warm enough for bathing and that the suits required by the city impede progress in swimming.

Bathers' Petition
The petition is as follows:
A petition for bathing at Piedmont Park on and after April 15th, 1914, and for modification of the rule requiring sleeves on bathing suits. To the Honorable Park Board of the City of Atlanta:

Whereas, there is warm sunshine in April, and observation has shown that many days in that month are as warm as the average for May or even June, and

Whereas, the lake and equipment at Piedmont Park await the public's nod, and hundreds will want to go in on or about April 15th.

We, the undersigned, ask that the lake be opened to the public on April 15th, 1914.

We further petition, that no sleeves be required on bathing suits, as these obstruct free movement, and seriously handicap the swimmer, especially in case of distress.

While we condemn indecent bathing costumes and wish them barred from the lake, we earnestly request your sanction of the standard sleeveless style of bathing suit, which, while modest, permits the swimmer to make his best effort.

Don Carey, Atlanta's manager of fairs, has been notified of the circulation of the petition. "I'm afraid it will be impossible to grant it," he said. "The running of Piedmont Lake costs the city of Atlanta a good sum of money each day. Atlanta has the money for maintaining the lake, but if it is opened April 15 I don't think that the expense will be justified by the number of bathers who will take advantage of the opening."

Weather Man's Opinion
It will simply mean that Atlanta will be spending a bunch of money for the convenience of a few men. April 15 is too early for bathing and there would be only about fifteen going in regularly until May.

That proposition is simply mean that petition will agree to give each a dollar for every time he goes in, all right. By that proposition I simply mean that I don't believe enough would go in. In the meantime the petitioners have circulated their petition in a number of downtown stores and other places where are gathered the younger element who would be likely to take advantage of the lake's early opening.

They have seen the weather man, C. F. von Herrmann, and obtained statistics on April weather to back their petition if it comes up for an argument.

Mr. Von Herrmann cited figures to them showing the highest, lowest and mean temperatures of previous Aprils. "Several times in April we have had the temperature under 40 degrees," he said. "But the average temperature is about 66 during the latter part of the month."

"Some of the lowest temperatures we have had in April were 33 on the 15th of April, 1907, 37 on the 15th of April, 1905, 31 on the 17th of April, 1905, 32 on the 25th of April, 1910. The 22-degree temperature was the time we had a snow storm, something unusual for that time of year."

"It has gone below 40 degrees as late as May 20, 1894, when it went to 39. As for the maximum temperature, it has never gone as high as 90 degrees in April, although it went up to 90 degrees on May 4, 1902."

"The normal temperature in April is 67 degrees. The records show that by the 15th the mean is generally 65 degrees, that when April closes it is 66 degrees, that when May opens it is 66 degrees, that by the 15th of May it is 70 degrees, and that when May closes it is 73 degrees. The petitioners feel that a mean temperature, on the 15th of 66 degrees is good swimming weather and warm enough to justify anybody taking a plunge.

Jimmie MacEach-ron

G. Alley.

Mr. Von Herrmann himself doesn't think so.

"All right if you like the bracing effects of a cold splash," he laughs. "Some people like to bathe in ice water. But not for mine. 70 degrees is none too warm for yours truly."

The petitioners don't agree with Mr. Von Herrmann. Some of them recall the old swimming hole days, glorious times when such popular places as Panola Pond, Pear's Pond, Max's Pond, were all running full blast by early April.

The younger generation of Atlantians do not recall Panola Pond, perhaps, but the memory of Pear's Pond and Max's Pond is still a vivid one with old and young alike.

Panola Pond was located about 300 yards north of the railroad bridge at Ponce de Leon Springs, a short distance above the later location of Pear's Pond.

Twenty-five years ago Panola Pond was in its glory. It opened with the first chirp of the spring peeper and did not close until the first frost came. It was a popular place then, but it was not so popular then as it is now. It was a popular place then, but it was not so popular then as it is now.

Pear's Pond is almost in the same fix, for already it is nearly filled up with water. Since Piedmont Lake was opened several years ago it has been a popular institution here. Hundreds of bathers, male and female, big and little, frequented it from early morning until late in the afternoon.

who he "hit the pond" on April 1. Max's Pond, out by West End, was equally as popular in by-gone days, and those who long for Piedmont's early opening site many a healthy specimen of manhood now walking Atlanta's streets who was wont to clear the springboard at Max's long before May.

Lakewood's Example
But the days of Max's, Panola and Pear's are long since gone, and today he who swims must seek Piedmont park or Lakewood or one of the club lakes. The petitioners for early opening claim that Lakewood begins public bathing the first part of April.

Piedmont should do the same, they say. But whether Piedmont Lakewood or one of the club lakes, it is sure to be a popular place then, but it was not so popular then as it is now.

It was a popular place then, but it was not so popular then as it is now. It was a popular place then, but it was not so popular then as it is now.

It was a popular place then, but it was not so popular then as it is now. It was a popular place then, but it was not so popular then as it is now.

 HAVE you ever seen a mountain that the they lie here on the top of a mountain that is more than 12,000 miles south of the Panama canal and something like 2,000 miles from the Strait of on the eastern shore of the Pacific ocean and 3,000-odd miles from the Atlantic. Their actual altitude is over 14,000 feet, and the highest peaks are over 15,000 or 15,605 feet above sea level to reach them. I came here by the Central railway of Peru. This brought me over a twelve-thousand-foot level at the town of Oroya.

 Then I got the Cerro de Pasco railroad and rode up the plateau where I now am.

Corro de Pasco is the highest mining town of the world. It is three or four thousand feet above Leadville and almost twice as high as Mexico City. There is a great deal of silver, 20,000 feet high, and its surroundings are some of the grandest on earth. The town is right over treasures of silver and copper of incalculable value. They have been mining here for 300 years, and the outlook is almost played out. That metal is that they will be mining copper for a very long time. The copper mines are really just at their beginning. Today the town is like a great colander, the holes of which are the openings of mines. The Spaniards and Indians have been mining here for eight generations and now the Americans have bought the most valuable deposits and the outlook is that they will be mining for many generations to come.

THE HIGHEST SMELT

The ore taken out by the Indians is now largely copper, although most of it carries more or less silver. The real value of the mines is in the copper, the ore containing more and

(The following article is from the Orange Judd Southern Farmer, published in Atlanta, for February 21, 1906.)

A NATURAL spillway has always existed from Cairo to the Gulf in what is known as the flood plane of the Mississippi river. This flood plane is a continuous valley whose bottom averages about 20 feet below the top of the main levee straining levees along the banks of the river. This flood plane has a gentle, almost uniform inclination from Cairo to the Gulf.

It is proposed to withdraw the flood waters from the Mississippi river near its junction with the Ohio river, to the north and south intakes of the spillway projected by Carroll L. Rike. The north branch is 3 1/2 miles wide, the south branch six miles wide, discharging into the main spillway near and west of New Madrid, Mo. Then to the Gulf the spillway is 10 miles wide. The main line, also both branches, are to be equally divided longitudinally by a levee.

to be removed from its entire length to prepare the spillway for its duty. This is a most extraordinary fact. It will only be necessary to build a low and comparatively small embankment or levee each side of the spillway where the water flows over the surface of the ground, no trench or bed is dug out for it; simply an embankment is thrown up on each side of spillway to confine the water within these artificial banks. Embankments 15 feet high and of sufficient cross-section to withstand the water's pressure, would goes to New York, where, as I have said, the gold and silver in it about pays the expenses of mining and reduction, leaving the copper as almost clear gain.

This American syndicate is almost incomprehensible. They have come here to the tops of the Andes, at an altitude of almost three miles above the sea, to build a smelter, a place which would be enormous in any other country. They have built a smelter about six miles from here which surpasses anything on the continent. They have come here in many respects to like nothing else ever known. They have built up a port this city of Cerro de Pasco. They have thousands of men in their employ. They have built a city of eight thousand Indians or native Peruvians. They have built a smelter. They have within about twenty-five miles from Cerro de Pasco a fine road, a fine highway, a fine road which they have connected by railroad with this town and the smelter. They have built a fine city here and furnish their own fuel. They have built a standard-gauge railroad, they have built a fine city here, from Cerro de Pasco to Orozco, and they have built a fine city here, on track, over which cars go as smoothly as any in the states, and they have built a fine city here. The road ranges from 12,000 to 14,000 ft. above the sea. It is this road that is the finest in the world. Railway of Peru, by which their ore is taken to the coast.

In the purchase of the mines the company has acquired a great deal of land. They have acquired about 200,000 acres. It would take a day and a half to ride all around it. They have built a fine city here, but the title to such lands in Peru gives only surface rights, and any one discovers. In addition to the mines the syndicate owns, through one of its branch companies, a great copper property at Morococha, where, I am told, the ore is even richer than that at Cerro de Pasco. The mines there are almost three miles above the sea level and they are now being worked. They are not far from the Central railway and they will have a down grade all the way to the seacoast at Callao, starting within a few miles of the mines.

Indeed, it is hard to realize the values in the copper which is being found here at the top of the Andes. The ore which is now coming out of Cerro de Pasco averages from 8 to 10 per cent of pure metal. That means that there are 200 pounds of copper in each ton. From a single ton of ore they are now getting a product equal to $32 entering the shaft, we dropped to a four-hundred-foot level, and then rode the electric trolley which carries us through the narrow tunnels to shaft. The tunnels are so small we could barely stand upright in them, and from the center of track one could easily reach the rim of the walls. Some of the tunnels are timbered with Peruvian eucalyptus, or with Oregon pine, but everywhere the work is so scientifically laid out that the rock in most cases appears to be of the same thickness. We stopped in a chamber where the miners were taking out ore. The machinery of the mine, with its belt and pulleys, the drilling is done with compressed air. The shafts are owned by native Peruvians, who are paid from 60 cents and upward a day, and are very proud of their position. They do quite as well as men of any other class in the states, they are in a better position than the average of the second step, as they clock in the morning, so that all of the men can sleep a part of the night. Everything is managed so that the most improved mines of the states, and this same plan is preserved in all the operations of the work. About 100,000 tons of copper are saved every day, and the miners know exactly what they are doing. They have a curious way of determining, without the aid of instruments, whether the ore is valuable or not. This is by means of a talow candle. They light the candle, and as they work with the ore, the copper in it gives out a green flame, the color of which they know about the percentage of the ore contains. As I went down through the mine with a guide, the assistant manager, he made such a test and told me that the car of ore recovered probably about 12 per cent.

During our journey we went from chamber to chamber, now walking through the tunnels and now jumping on horse back to let us see the whole of the underground workings as a beehive of industry and the most interesting one I have ever seen steadily on without friction.

The mines are so arranged that the cars are loaded and the ore is being mined is most economically done.

from the United States, and the miner we met had an excellent opinion on his cap. The managers find this is much cheaper than canvas. The mines are worked by electricity which is now generated by a dam, but the company is installing a new electric plant at Cayo, about twenty-five miles away, where they have a stream with a fall which will generate about 15,000 horsepower. In a short time all of their machinery and at the least some of the coca will be operated by electricity. The coca of this river, which is produced by coal from the mines of the United States, is about twenty-five miles from Cero-dorado. They use this to make coca for the smelter and they have great quantities of almost pure limestone, away between the mines and the smelter. The only miles distance is only six miles distant and 200 feet lower down the river.

During my stay I have spent some at the smelter. The place is known by the Peruvian name of La Esmeralda. The works are situated about a mile around a broad head of water, and the great furnaces are so close together that they are in the shade of each other. The ore is taken out of the hillsides and is hoisted by means of a cable and pulley system to be sent down on the cables to a smelter, the largest in South America. It must cover several hundred acres. It consists of great buildings, colored black with smoke. They are walled with glass windows and have roofs of galvanneum. Rising above them are three tall chimneys, each so high and round that you could run a Pullman through it without touching the roof. These stacks are about 200 ft. high and from them day and night pour out vast volumes of white and yellow smoke into the clouds of the sky.

FEET ABOVE THE SEA

HEADQUARTERS IN CERRO

The smelter has the finest of modern machinery and every pound of it came from the states. This is so also with the great iron buildings and the wood used for the structures and railroads. The establishment has duplicated the machinery of the great steel mills. It runs three eight-hour shifts and keeps busy Sunday and week building this smelter the water had to contend with difficulties before. But no one had ever before been a master of the sea, and the experts said furnaces would be built on land. They claimed that the air was so rare that you would have to breathe 100 cubic feet of air per minute as it is usually in order to get the oxygen out of the reaction. The syndicate determined to try it, and the engineers could not put up the buildings. The furnaces would not work and sea sickness was rampant. One man throwing up his hands in despair, said: "I don't know how to be shown. He said I don't believe that the figures told us that the sea was so rare and he said the figures did not go right. He was taking off his hat and putting it on his head saying a way that he got the right answer. He said: 'I don't know! the plant did its work.' So to that time it looked as though the sea was so rare that the millions, would fall. The capitalists were so sure that they had poured in so much that it could not let go. Since that day, the sea has been known it is now a proposition which exceedingly well. As soon as the sea was known to be so rare that he got an expert engineer, he said: 'I don't know! the plant did its work.'

I wish I could take you through the greatest monument of the American industry that has been erected out here on the top of the mesa. I should like to show you men directing the work and bossing the mines. I would show you the great fires over the American range and we could watch it as it rolls in the cars to the furnaces. We then even open the furnace doors and see the crimson copper melting in the pots. It would be hotter than seven times hotter than those those though Meselack, Shadrach Abnegado walked and later on in the cars we could watch the molten gold emptied by a seventy-ton sled, worked from above. We could see the golden splurge flying off into the air and the sparks running while the pure copper, silver and gold flowed into the molds. We could see the metal change in color as it melted and watch the round blocks of pounds as they were loaded on to cars to be shipped to the state, spent the better part of a day in a smelter, and it made me feel proud to be as an American born. The profit of the works, as I have said, is now more than 4,000,000 pounds of copper, silver and gold. It is equal to more than thirty million dollars. It is more than 30 pounds every hour of the day

MR. DOOLEY

On Mexico

BY FINLEY PETER DUNNE

"I can't see them havin' a tintype taken an' George lendin' Pancho his own forty-five as a soovener iv their frindship."

"Th' Liberator received th' message while he was engaged in fryin' a hundherd thousan' dollars out iv a rich compatriot over a slow fire."

"YES, sir," said Mr. Dooley, "I'm sthrong fr' our Mexican policy."

"What is it?" asked Mr. Hennessy.

"I don't know," said Mr. Dooley. "In a gin'ral way it is to watch an' to wait—watch till some frind iv ours gets kilt, sind a sharp reprimand to our ally like 'Well, I declare, or 'Tut, tut, an' thin wait till it happens again. But it's goin' to come out all right in th' end. Th' secret iv state, who has charge iv th' matter, was interviewed afther his thrombone solo at Chillicothe, Ohio, th' other night, an' he said he had not heard fr'm Mexico fr' a week, but he felt sure that whin he returned to th' capital he wud find that affairs were approachin' a happy solution. Any day now I expect to read: 'Owin' to th' strict enforcement iv th' fugitive law th' last cause iv onaisiness in th' state department over Mexico has been removed be cardages to Cal'fry. His name was Higgins an' he come fr'm Haverhill, Mass.'"

"It's no good fr' ye to go ragin' an' tearin' around because our little frind Pancho Villa is so impulsive in argyin' with strangers that often whin a court martial has condemned a white man fr' speakin' with a threosonable accint in th' prisence iv th' great liberator they have to go out an' dig him up to enforce th' sintince. Don't be carrid away be a rash impulse to punch somebody in th' eye. Be a statesman like William Jennings Bryan. It is thure that I meself often feel whin I read th' news fr'm Mexico that I ought to go down to Chihuahoo an' take our good an' great frind be th' scruff iv th' neck an' kick him all th' way to Eagle Pass an' thin hand him over to th' gov'nor iv Texas while I go across the street to th' grocery store an' buy a clothesline. But that's why I ain't a statesman. Ye don't see William Jennings gettin' red in th' face an' poundin' th' table over these thrifles. No, sir. He goes serenely about his platform jooties an' his lecture program is absolutely unruffled."

"Our relations with Pancho is most corjal an' just what ye'd want th' relations iv a gr-rent civilizid republic with wan iv th' most notorizid burglars now in public life to be. We give him th' gun, he shoots th' prisoner, an' we apologize to th' powers. It's wan iv the pleasantest alliances this country has contrabacted since it took in th' mikrobic iv infolooziny. We're justly proud iv our little frind, an' he loves an' respects us. P'raps he holds us in too much awe an' veneration, but that is no more than nashral in a meek an' modest half breed who has gone into partnership with wan iv th' most pow'ful nations in th' wuruld."

"I hope th' administration won't be too severe with him. I thought I see signs iv that in some recent remarks at Wash'nton, an' it wud be too bad if the alliance was weakened be autercatic methods. He shud be ruled be kindness an' love. There's no use in a big, strong man like Woodrow Wilson bullying this gentle soul. Fr' instance, what was th' good iv sindin' this rough message last week: 'King iv England wants to know if ye intend to kilt any more iv his subjulics. I know yer excillency's tender heart too well to suggest that ye do, but if it isn't too much trouble I'd like an answer collect.' To which Pancho made th' followin' almost obsequyous reply: 'None iv th' king's business or ye'ers ayether. But if ye have to know, yes. Sind on more amnyintion, an' be quick about it, or I'll go over an' take it away frim ye."

"Th' presidint apparently lost his temper an' set down an' wrote this angry response: 'Affectionate Ally an' Dear an' Respected Frind: I am shippin' ye this day f. o. b. an' C. O. D. at El Paso two hundherd cases iv rifles an' amnyintion, which I hope ye will use to good purpose against th' villainous Hoota. Plaze excuse th' delay. I thrust ye ar-re well an' all th' little villains an' Mrs. Pancho. Ye haven't sint me that photygraft ye promised. Referrin' to me tellygram iv last week, it was nawthin' important. On'y th' king iv England has been raisin' Ned about some alleged subjulic iv his that was last seen leavin' ye'er house in a hearse. He thinks th' man is dead. I pooh-poohed th' idee. But he said th' fair fame iv England was at stake, an' th' on'y way I cud wipe out th' foul blot on his honor was to let him use th' Pannyma canal free iv charge. Reely, Pank, ye must be more careful. I realize yer playful disposition, but if th' powers iv Europe hears about this thing they'll be investin' hundherds iv their surplus citizens in Mexico an' I'll have to be givin' away chunks iv territory to satisfy their injured honor, an' th' first thing ye know we'll be broke. Instead iv bein' nettled be this reproof, Pancho replied in a conciliatory spirit. Th' Liberator received th' message while he was engaged in fryin' a hundherd thousan' dollars out iv a rich compatriot over a slow fire. Lavin' this important jooty iv state an' afther shootin' th' messenger an' takin' his horse, he set down, dipped his pen in a bucket iv blood, an' wrote as follows: 'Dear Dock, I don't know which English subjulic ye refer to in yer impyulant note. There has been a number iv casualties in th' foreign colony since I come here, an' next week there'll be more if I keep me health. If it's th' duck I think ye mean ye can give anny iv th' followin' reasons to th' king fr' his death: Wan—He isn't dead, but has eloped with th' wife iv a prom'nent business man iv San Antone. Two—He come to me office an' dhrew an ink eraser on me. Three—He insulted me an' was shot be wan iv me faithful lootinants. Four—He jumped out iv a window an' broke his neck. Five—He had on a pair iv new boots an' I needed them. Six—I mistook him fr' an American citizen. Seven—He was arrested fr' stealin' a horse an' was shot while attemptin' to escape. Eight—He was thrised as a spy be a court martial an' sintinced to death. But, alas, too late. I can't see them havin' a tintype taken an' George lendin' Pancho his own forty-five as a soovener iv their frindship. Whin he was 35 th' sp'rit iv onest seized him an' foored him to leave his comfortable home under his hat alongside a fire near th' railroad depot an' go out into th' wuruld to engage in th' struggle fr' his daily chully on carney. He had no difficulty in selictin' a profession. Manny forms iv larceny was open to him, but he chose th' wan best sooted to his love iv manly exercise an' an out iv dure life an' become a highway robber. In this pursoot he soon kilt off all compytition an' manny competitors an' was known in Mexican fi-nancial circles as wan iv th' largest an' most onprincipled bandits iv his section, a dealer in horses, cattle, an' express packages, op'ratin' a plant fr' th' manyfacther iv currency out iv lead pipe, an' actin' as commission merchant fr' th' principal underhertakin' establishments iv th' country. He was slow to enter th' conflict, contentin' himself at first with hookin' cav'ry rig'mints fr'm th' opposin' ar-mies. But wan day while he was peacefully engaged in changin' th' brand on a consignment iv steers that had just arrived, a message came to him that made ivry dhrop iv patriotic blood in his veins bubble with passion. He heard that th' hated government, th' oppressors iv his people, had just deposited fifty thousan' dollars in a bank at Chihuahoo. This outrage stirred him as nawthin' else cud. Th' young people iv America ought to know more about our dark frinds to th' south, an' I'm thinkin' iv gettin' out a Pan-American Statesmen Series. 'Vol. Wan. Pancho Villa.' great majority of "negro songs" are current now are "one verse" and "two verse" type. All songs developed along the one verse type.

Many of the old spirituals were composed by the negro preachers for congregations. Others were composed by the slaves in the various parts of the country. Still others were composed by the "mammys" as they are called, the time in imaginative melody. The negro church has never been a church because of the lack of the pleasurable features and the religious features. The church of the everyday environment the one-day songs must necessarily be different from the church of tomorrow will be different from today. Hence the importance of preserving each cycle in time.

Contagious Hospital Is a Pressing Need

BY MISS J. O. FAIRMALEE.

AM especially interested in the problems of Atlanta and as a member of the city board I would advocate better facilities for contagious diseases.

Recently I have come into direct contact with women who have to stay in positions in order to stay out of the contagious diseases known to the Atlanta pays direct and indirect attention to the contagious hospital. In such cases the city and charities are called upon to provide for all the city bears responsibility.

It is an easy matter to tell others to be careful during the influenza, and it requires no mental tact to sit off quietly and tell how money of the city should be lost, but as a member of the board I believe that I would use statistics to prove that it is cheap for Atlanta to provide a place for contagious diseases than it is to pay for the care of the contagious diseases.

It is amusing to hear a general knocker say what he would do if he were in charge of the contagious hospital. Atlanta would blossom in the night and so on but it is the men and women who are in the city's best interest who count in the line of municipal problems.

"It is the fact nowadays to write stories as though they were a recount of actual events, but nine times out of ten, the stories are pure fiction pointed here and there with deep and vital truths which appeal to every person—things that may have happened or have been felt in the life of the human race."

IF YOU want to be a successful short story writer or novelist, you must make a business of it and that means that I must work the greater part of the day. Hard work is the only way to succeed as a story writer.

The two heroines have lots of family traditions and no money and the heroes have lots of money and are in love. The thing works out happily.

Mrs. Futrelle is about half through with the second story. The more unusual the idea the better, and arrange the plan of your story. Have it be a long time before there is another one.

There is a little work-room entirely separate from the house where no one else goes.

Indeed, in another minute we were in a lofty room with daylight, candles, dressing cupboard, platform, and every other adjunct save the signs of actual travel. The first thing I saw, as Raffles lit the gas, was its reflection in his silk hat on the pegs beside the rest of his normal garments.

"Looking for the works of art?" continued Raffles, lighting a cigarette and beginning to divest himself of his rags.

"I'm afraid you won't find any, but there's the canvas I'm always going to make a start upon. I tell them I'm looking high and every way; and it's a model. I have the stove lit on principle twice a week, and look in and at pinch."

"You never told me you went to fe disguises," said I, watching him as he cleansed the grime from his face and hands.

"No, Bummy, I've treated you very shabbily all round. There was really no reason why I shouldn't have shown you this place a month ago, and yet there was no point in my doing so, and the circumstances are just conceivable in which it would have suited us both for you to be in genuine ignorance of my whereabouts. I have something to sleep on, as you perceive, in case of need, and, of course, my name is no Raffles in the King's record. So you will see that one might bolt further and fare worse."

"Meanwhile you use the place as a dressing-room?"

"It's my private pavilion," said Raffles. "Disguises? In some cases they're half the battle, and it's always pleasant to feel that, if the worst comes to the worst, you needn't necessarily be convicted under your own name. In the way, I only hope I've got something that'll fit you, for you'll want rig for tomorrow night."

"Tomorrow night?" I exclaimed.

"Why, what do you mean to do?"

"The trick," said Raffles. "I intend

...telling to me as soon as I got back to my rooms, to ask you to look me up tomorrow afternoon; then I was going to unfold my plan of campaign, and take you straight into action then and there. You must try to forgive me. I couldn't help remembering how well you played up last trip, without any time on weaker—on it beforehand. All I want is for you to be as cool and smart tomorrow night as you were then; though, by Jove, there's no comparison between the two cases!"

"I thought you would find it so."

"You were right. I have. That's the worst of an irregular household!" cried Raffet, with quite a burst of violent indignation. "I assure you, Banny, I spent the whole of Monday night in the shubbery of the garden Even then I left the sober enough to slang each other. I say, they very nearly came to blows in the garden, within a few yards of me, and I heard something that might come in useful and make Rosenthal shoot crooked at a critical moment. You know what an I. D. he is?"

"Ill-tit diamond buyer?"

"Exactly. Well, it seems that Rosenthal was one. He must have let it go to Purvis in his cuns. Anyhow, I heard Purvis taunting him with it, and threatening him with the breaker."

"Captains?" and I began to think of friends are friend and foe. But about tomorrow night: there's nothing sub in my plan. It's simply to get in with those fellows are out on the loose, to lie low till they come back, and then, if possible we must doctor 'em whisky. That would simplify the whole thing, though it's not a very sporting game to play; still, we must remember Rosenthal's revolver; we don't want him to sign his name on us."

SCOUT LEADER FIGHTS THE SALE OF CHEAP NOVELS TO BOYS IN ATLANTA

Capt. Jack Crawford, the famous scout and one of the members of the Atlanta camp. Secrets of woodcraft: how to build fires without matches and how to follow a trail, were told by him to the boy scouts.

tion to this new feature of the Boy Scout movement's work, and inviting their cooperation in helping to solve the vital problem of the boy's reading.

Number of Nickel Novels. While here I tried to discover just how many of the boys of Atlanta are reading the nickel novel. The results of that investigation are full of interest. From authoritative sources, the following facts were gathered. Each week about 500 nickel novels of the "Nick Carter," "Wild West," "Fame and Fortune," etc., variety. These publications are not handled by any of the book stores but are sold entirely by the news stands in Atlanta—however, not more than fifteen at the most handle them. From the same authoritative source it was also learned that there are distributed each week in the four states of Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Florida, only about 4,000 of these nickel novels. Inquiry was made as to schools, the motion picture shows are providing a substitute. Certain magazines, such as "Popular Mechanics," and others on electricity, are in successful competition with the nickel novel. The publishers of these novels recently said that among the paper-bound publications, nothing has hit their business so hard as these popular technical magazines for boys. Careful inquiry discloses the fact that the nickel novel has not been banished quite so completely as at first appears. It still persists but in another form. You will find it now more often and more widely distributed in the disguise of the bound book. And sometimes so attractively bound that it takes its place on the retail book store shelf along side the best juvenile publications. Sometimes, too, it happens that the very stories that sell on the newsstands for five cents in the paper covers, bound most attractively, sell in the book stores for fifty cents.

Great Harm Done. Are any such books in the stores of Atlanta? Yes, by tens of thousands they are being sold here, and, in one instance, I found the famous Frank Merriwell nickel novel series, selling in the bound form, for fifty cents. Yet, I don't think that the book seller is greatly at fault, "a stunner above all others." The fault lies more largely must carry them or go out of business.

Of course the people who purchase these cheap books little know what they are buying. To them they are just story books, little realizing that it is "just a story book" that rightly used makes one of the most valuable contributions to a boy's education, especially the boy in his early teens. Because these cheap books do not develop criminals or lead boys, except very occasionally, to seek the "wild west," parents who buy such books think they do their boys no harm. The fact is, however, the harm done is simply incalculable.

One of the most valuable assets a boy has is his imagination. In proportion as it is developed a boy develops initiative and resourcefulness. The greatest possible service that education can render is to train the boy to grasp and master new situations as they constantly present themselves; and what helps more to make such adjustment than a lively imagination? Story books of the right sort stimulate and conserve this noble faculty, while those of the viler sort cheapen and destroy it by debauching and debauching and debauching and destroyed by strong drink.

Effect of Books. If you take gasoline and feed it to an automobile a drop at a time, you get splendid results, because you have confined and directed it with intelligent care and caution. Take the same quantity of gasoline and just pour it out and you either don't get anywhere or you get somewhere you don't care to go. Here is an apt illustration of the proper use of the elements that must enter in to make the good book for boys. Boy let it be understood that the good book for the average boy must be one that, as the Century magazine says, is "whole, some, and serious." And what is meant by this? The red-blooded boy, the boy in his early teens, must have his thrills; he craves excitement, has a passion for action, and he wants to be doing "all the time, and in nothing is this more true than in his reading. The man who writes books for boys that really "get them coming," must always write with combustible explosive materials.

The difference between a "Treasure Island" and a "Nick Carter" is not a difference in the elements but the use each author makes of them. Stevenson works with combustibles but, as in the case of using the gasoline, he confines them, directs them with care and caution, always thinking of how he may use them in such a way as will be of most good to the boy. In the case of "Nick Carter," the author works with the same materials but with no moral purpose, first of all, and with no effort to make to confine or direct or control them. The author of "Treasure Island" is the author of this type of reading that will "get by" his publisher's censor and "thriller" to write to interest the boy.

The result is, as boys read these books their imaginations are literally "blown out," "shot to pieces," "burned out," and they go into life miserably crippled but by some material explosion by which they have lost a hand or foot. For having had his imagination "burned out," not only will the boy be greatly handicapped in his every form of work, but he will be almost as stupid as a fish. Why are there so few readers of the real, great books or even of the passing novels of real worth? Largely, I think, because the imagination of many men have received such brutal treatment at the hands of certain authors and publishers and bookkeepers who have no concern as to what they write or publish or sell so long as it returns constantly the expected financial gain.

Writing Cheap Novels. I feel sure the public would be interested in knowing something about those who write and how these nickel novels, in the disguise of the bound book, are written. Recently a man came into my office in New York. He said he had been chosen by a certain publishing house to complete a series of story books. I asked him who had been writing the series before he undertook the work. He replied that that man was now in Bloomingdale, the asylum for the insane in New York City. I happened to know that yet another man, a reporter in Texas, had also been the author of some of the books in the series, who, with the original author, and the lunatic, made three men who had tried their hand at this popular series of books, for they had been selling by the tens of thousands.

Now a fourth man was to try his hand at the business of furnishing "thrills" for "so much per." The other authors had exhausted their supply, so a new man is requisitioned into service. And who is he? The press agent of Buffalo Bill's show! I need only to add that when the first books of the series appeared they were most certainly of the sort to make the boy's blood tingle.

But some of the men who write these books are more prolific, rivaling Balzac in their output. I know of one such author who writes under twelve names. Still another employs a staff of writers. His furnished plot, etc., they for the most part do the writing, the particular author first literary genius being so edited, add a few more thrills, then find a title that will be "up to the minute" in its power of appeal to the boy. By such methods last year, I have been told, this author manufactured forty-one books, which are now selling, not a few from in Atlanta, at prices ranging from 10 to 15 cents.

Boy Scout Books. The Boy Scout movement cares so in a general way to call attention to certain conditions in order that parents may be aroused to see that the problem of their boy's reading is and how constant is the threat and how insidious is the peril that besets boys everywhere. Beyond that, except as counsel may be given in particular cases about particular books, it is not the policy of the movement to herald abroad the titles of mediocre or vicious books. The Scouts think they have done a better thing, through the efforts of their library committees and the cooperation of the publishers of the best books for boys, they have issued "Every Boy's Library," a list of the best books for boys, they have issued books as are of interest to boys, first of all, and with no effort to make to confine or direct or control them. The author of "Treasure Island" is the author of this type of reading that will "get by" his publisher's censor and "thriller" to write to interest the boy.

It is the hope of the Boy Scout movement by this means to place within the reach of all parents the best of the best of the books that have in them such things as appeal to boys, stories of heroes who possess characteristics of the noblest, of men of unquenchable courage, immense resourcefulness, absolute fidelity, conspicuous greatness, the men who do things, big things, worth doing, the men who conquer the odds, the men who overcome the odds, the men who are the best of the best. For the boy that spirit is almost as close to his staff of life as made and, if through his reading we would profoundly influence him, the constant challenge of his life with stories of astonishing accomplishments, biographies that hold his attention, wonder tales of almost unattainable undertakings achieved. The need of the hour is that such books should be made easily accessible to boys and that intelligent direction be given so that boys reading the books they like so well may win results that count for mental and moral development.

ABOUT 500 nickel novels of the "Wild West" and "Fame and Fortune" type are sold in Atlanta each week.

But cheap stories published in book form and appearing to be innocent juvenile stories, do even greater harm.

About 4,000 nickel novels are distributed each week in the four states of Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Florida, and one-fifth of these are sold in Atlanta.

Franklin K. Mathews, chief librarian of the Boy Scouts, collected these facts during a ten days' investigation in Atlanta.

His conclusion is that Atlanta is the chief distributing point in four states for nickel novels harmful to boys.

As a result of his investigation he will make a campaign to lessen the number of cheap novels and books sold here.

He writes of his investigations:

By Franklin K. Mathews
Chief Librarian of the Boy Scouts.

In the execution of its purpose to give educational value and moral worth to the recreational activities of the boyhood of America, the leaders of the Boy Scout movement quickly learned that to carry out its program effectively, the boy must be influenced not only in his outdoor life but also in the diversions of his other leisure moments. It is at such times that the boy is captured by the tales of daring enterprises and adventurous good times.

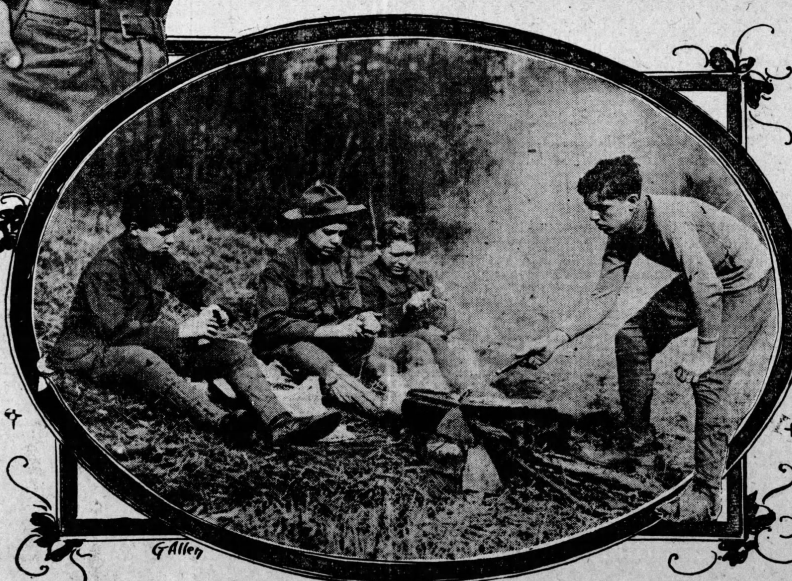

What now is needed is not that his taste should be thwarted but trained. There should constantly be presented to him the books that like best, yet always the books that will be best for the boy. As a matter of fact, however, the boy's taste is constantly being vitiated and exploited by the great mass of cheap juvenile publications. To help anxiously concerned parents and educators to meet this grave peril, the Library commission of the Boy Scouts of America was organized. The commission is composed of the following members: George F. Bowersman, librarian, public library of the District of Columbia, Washington, D. C.; Harrison P. Craver, who reads these modern "penny dreadfuls." Some of those who sold them thought that only 25 per cent of their total sales were to boys. Others thought that their best customers were young men eighteen and older, and very frequently, they say, "old men buy them."

What influences are winning the modern boy from this type of cheap publication? Aside from the good influence of the public libraries and by on the other side of the counter. There is such an insatiable demand for cheap books—books selling at from twenty-five to fifty cents—that the average book seller, in order to hold his business, feels the imperative need of handling these cheap publications, particularly the twenty-five cent ones. On the other hand, it is so small he would gladly eliminate the trade demand is so great he just Lucy Cobb Notes.

On Saturday afternoon the Lucy Cobb basketball team played and won the fifth game of the season, still being in the lead for the championship of the south. Their opponents on the occasion were the members of the team of Washington seminary, and worthy ones they proved. For first to last the game was exciting and the general rooting proved how keen the interest in the outcome was. Miss Kiser, captain of the Washington seminary team, made the two goals for that side, while Miss Nicholson and Miss McWhorter made eighteen points for Lucy Cobb. On both sides, however, good team work as well as good spirit was shown. Beside the team and the chaperones, Misses Martin and Miss Sharp, quite a number of other seminary supporters came over for the day and made it a social as well as an athletic affair. Refreshments were served in the library to the visitors and the members of the Y. W. C. A. and normal school teams and a delightful half-hour spent. Miss Louise Walker spent the week end with her parents in Augusta. Miss Sarah Lauer, one of Miss Paragon's classmates, will be with her for a few days. Mr. C. M. SIGNS OF THE TIMES

PREPARATIONS for the grand opera of 1914 are well under way, and from all present indications this year will rival in social brilliance any previous season. The opera has been selected with careful thought and embrace a tangle of subject, which it is believed will please the most catholic taste. Visitors from all over the country are expected for the week, and it is believed that each evening the auditorium will present a kaleidoscopic scene of sparkle and color with exquisitely gowned women in sheen of silk and satin, who will occupy the boxes and the floor of the building. A number of house parties have been planned for the week, dejeuner dances will fill the mornings and all available space between the opera and several large parties are being planned in honor of a number of opera stars who are social favorites in the city and who are always lavishly entertained during their stay. Open house will be kept at the Town and Country club and the two large dinner dances at the Piedmont and the Capital City club will be among the most delightful of the formal entertainments of the week.

THE annual congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution to be held in Washington, D. C., the middle of April, is attracting much attention. This will be the twenty-third congress and the important business which will come before the assembled body will be the election of ten vice presidents general and the proposed amendment to the constitution will also be a feature which will afford vital interest. The nineteenth of April has been distinguished in the circles of the D. A. R. will lend brightness to the occasion. Many beautiful entertainments are being planned in honor of the visitors to the national capital, and it is expected that a large number will attend from Atlanta.

AN announcement of the week in which cordial interest was manifested was that of the engagement of Miss Gladys LeBlanc and Mr. Robert Horace Butters, of Ludington, Miss. The wedding, which will be an event of early spring, will be largely attended by friends from the west, where the young bride-elect made her home before coming to Atlanta to live. Miss LeBlanc is a lovely girl who numbers her friends by the score, and it is a matter of great regret that her marriage will take her away from Atlanta, where she has been a social favorite since her debut. A series of parties have been planned for Miss LeBlanc and for Mr. Butters, who arrived Friday for a brief visit.

DARKENS GRAY HAIR

You Can Have Beautiful, Dark Hair and Lots of it by Applying Q-Ban—Darkens Evenly.

When your hair begins to turn gray, streaked, faded or brittle, or if hair is all gray or white, try the following: On retiring apply Q-Ban, like a shampoo, to hair and scalp. The gray disappears and a few more applications of Q-Ban, the hair is beautifully darkened so evenly and naturally no one can tell it has been applied. Q-Ban is very popular because, in addition to beautifully darkening the hair, it produces that soft, dark luster and appearance of abundance to the hair which makes the hair so fascinating and attractive, besides preventing dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair, and promotes the growth of thin or brittle hair. Q-Ban is not sticky or messy—delightful to use. Cannot injure or stain the most delicate scalp or hair. If you care for dark, thick, soft hair, free from grayness, make a personal trial of Q-Ban. It will please, delight and surprise you with beautiful dark hair and lots of it. A large 7-ounce bottle sold and guaranteed for only 60 cents by Edmondson's Drug Store, 11 N. Broad street, or 104 N. Pryor, Atlanta, Ga. Out-of-town people supplied by mail.—(Adv.)

OUR ASTROLOGER

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

HOROSCOPE.

MONDAY, MARCH 22, 1914.

Fair Venus and Bright Mars

Are the day's evil stars.

An unfortunate day. Astrologers find that both Venus and Mars are in evil aspect.

Women should be particularly circumspect during this configuration, which augurs ill for their social and professional successes.

During the adverse rule of this planet the weddings and entertainments are exposed to be subject to unfortunate conditions. All places of festivity—cafés, theaters and banquets—partake of the influence which tends to discomfiture and failure.

Vanity is said to flower when Venus is inimical, and self-indulgence is encouraged. Eating and drinking to excess are common while this astral government prevails.

There is a forbidding omen for shipping and for wearing new garments. Mars' adverse sway is interpreted as troublesome or dangerous for those who go on journeys. Difficulties are likely to be met if a trip is begun before the aspect changes.

Under this astral government it is said to be imperative in all things, controlling the emotions and avoiding all controversies.

Exhibitions of emotion, irritability and vain-glory are common while Mars remains unfriendly. Domestic happiness is endangered by moods which betray the latent impulses.

Owing to the fact that at the time of the vernal equinox the sun was in the tenth house, it has been predicted that "death will be busy among the great" this spring. In 1913, when this occurred last, Earl Beaconsfield and Thomas Carlyle succumbed.

A London astrologer forebodes the possibility of such trouble in Ireland that the viceroys may resign. A revolutionary movement in Russia, Prussia and Austria is predicted.

Dry weather in certain parts of Canada is predicted, but a prosperous season for agriculture is probable.

The theory of such trouble in Ireland that the viceroys may resign. A revolutionary movement in Russia, Prussia and Austria is predicted.

Persons who added responsibilities in business. They may have domestic anxieties, and should beware of quarrels.

Children born on this day are fortunate in the guidance of the stars. They will be most attractive to the opposite sex and will meet with comparatively few troubles in life. Boys will have the power to make money easily, but they will spend it rapidly.

La Camille Corsets

and

The Allen Corset Service

Our Corset Service means not only supplying you with the best corsets made—best by both reputation and experience—but we have the professional fitting service unsurpassed.

By "professional" we mean that our fitters are professionally and surgically trained with regard to corsets and their use, and are scientifically instructed with regard to anatomy, thus providing every woman with the corset and the adjustment she may need—whatever her requirements.

A corset made to your order and individual measurements has no possible advantage over the perfectly made corset, selected for and scientifically adjusted to your figure.

Professional Corset Makers Surgically Trained

Preside Over Our Fitting Rooms

Women of delicate health, having to consult their physician about the sort of corsets worn, may have every order filled in our corset department, and every special requirement fulfilled with regard to surgically adjusting them.

"La Camille"

Is the Front-Lace Corset With the Ventilator Back and Ventilator Front Shield

In favor of the prevailing styles—nothing can surpass a "good lace front corset; for comfort it is hard to equal; for women of delicate anatomy nothing takes its place.

Note the special features that make the "La Camille" the corset necessary to you:

The Ventilator, ventilated back, eliminates pressure on the delicate nerves and blood vessels of the spine and provides a better circulation of air. At all times this built-in-the-corset ventilating feature remains the same—neither perspiration nor air can change it. Its rigidity (an absolutely necessary feature in the back of a corset) remains the same.

The Ventilator device, ventilated shield, also appears under the front laces, preventing the laces from scarring the flesh and permitting better adjustment.

Give our corset department an early call, and get the information and demonstration that will convince you to your own ultimate corset satisfaction.

plation proved a delightful innovation and was splendidly attended. The interesting program included many clever and original features by a number of the members. The decorations, especially between the numbers too was attractive. Flower-laden tables, the red and white of the carnations suggesting the color of the carnations, continued on the walls with the aid of flags and gaily colored balloons in graceful festoons.

Miss Patricia, president of the Z. I. Fitzpatrick, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, added greatly to the pleasure of the afternoon. Mrs. Fitzpatrick is always the author of a cordial welcome from her many friends. Palms and growing plants were placed in the center of the room into the appearance of a garden and the beautifully gownned women, many of whom wore with early spring costumes, gave a glow of color which completed the semblance of the open air cabaret.

Are you making her mistake?

She made a needless mistake, this woman who is too tired, too footsore to stand.

She wanted so much to have her foot well-dressed and chic! So she made that needless mistake so many women make; she sacrificed comfort.

And now she is paying the price. Today her pleasure is spoiled!

"Tell me," she besought her companion, "does walking never tire you? Yesterday you shopped all afternoon, yet returned as fresh-looking as when you left. And your shoes always look so stylish too!"

And then the other woman told her the story of the Red Cross shoe, told her—but—

Won't you go to the Red Cross store in your town and learn this story for yourself? There you will find your style among the fashionable new models.

Try it on. See how the special Red Cross tanning process makes this shoe adapt itself to every movement of your foot. At your first step you will realize you have found just the style perfection you want combined with comfort such as you have never known before.

Go now! Don't deny yourself the joy of wearing the Red Cross shoe another day.

With Opening of Season Only
Few Days Off, Coach Bean Has Been Working Squad at Brisk Gait—Competition for Open Jobs Narrowing Down

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
ATLANTA, Ga., March 21.—With the first game of the season only two or three days off, Coach Joe Bean has been working the Red and Black squad at top speed this week. As a result of this work, the boys are rapidly rounding into shape, and should be able to give a good account of themselves when they tackle the Mississippi A. & M. team here Monday and Tuesday.

Among other things, the coach has been laying special emphasis on hitting from several days past. These boys are extremely bringing satisfactory results, for practically every member of the squad is swinging on the ball well and some, who have shown a tendency to chop at it, are now meeting it squarely on the trade mark. In the matter of competition for several positions, which were considered in doubt at the beginning of practice, there are now no doubts, and the coach, although no definite selections have been announced as yet, by the coach, Louis Lester, an Atlanta boy, appears to have the edge on other candidates at third. Lester is very fast in his feet, runs bases well, and knows what to do with the ball when he gets it. He looks like a pretty sure prediction that he will be stationed at the bat when the team lines up for its first game Monday.

Bill Denny looks like the choice at first just now. He is showing up very well in practice, and is improving from day to day. It is practically certain that he will start the season there. Big John Henderson is not reporting for practice regularly, owing to the fact that he is doing some urgent class room work, and cannot get out every with the rest of the bunch. Already the fans have conceded Torbett the job behind the bat. He has been showing up very nicely in practice, and since he has the advantage of reserve experience of last season, he will in all probability get the job. Coach Bean, however, has not yet made up his mind. He is still waiting to see what he will start Torbett, and it is stated to be seen just what his choice will be.

As stated above, the first game will be played Monday with the Mississippi A. & M. boys, who come for a two-game series. Following these games, the team will come to Friday and Saturday for two more.

of One Run—Score 1 to 0

In spite of the fact that the field was practically covered with snow, the game was finished, the Yellow Jackets and the Riverside Military Academy teams played a six-inning game at Grant field Saturday afternoon. The Jackets put up a nice game in the field, and their work promises well for future contests. They will meet Gainesville on Monday afternoon on Grant field, and are figuring on taking the Plunketts into camp.

Joe Jeannette
Beat Carpenter

PARIS, March 21.—Joe Jeannette, the American heavyweight pugilist, won the decision over George Carpenter, the French champion, on points in a fifteen-round bout tonight.

Jeannette had the advantage at the start and in the early rounds, which were marked by continuous infighting. Carpenter put up a fine defense and several of the rounds ended in his favor.

The American, who had a trifle more weight than his opponent, landed heavy blows, which Jeannette was staggered by. The fight that the American had the more aggressive, the referee awarded the decision to Jeannette.

Carpenter is the idol of French pugilists and there was much disappointment over his defeat.

Vardon Won't

Noted English Golfer An-

LONDON, March 21.—Harry Vardon, the world's classic, will not visit America this year but will wait until 1915. This is the first definite information received about the plans of the famous golfer, who is now in America.

It will be recalled that Vardon, the 1912 British open title holder, went to America last summer with the distinct purpose of carrying off open championship, if possible, and they were only prevented from doing so through the unexpected and amazing display on the part of Francis Ouin, a well-known professional. Vardon says it will be his last trip to America.

Subsequently Vardon and his toured America, playing in nearly forty exhibition matches and losing but one. When they had returned to England, Vardon was requested to write his impressions on the American golf and to write a book on the subject. He has now done so. In the course of these writings, Vardon has expressed his opinion of the galleries of an eminent writer, who appreciated the fine points of the game and encouraged the visitor to go to the galleries. As a result of this, Vardon has been "pinned" by many writers, though on several occasions he has expressed his opinion of the galleries of an eminent writer, who appreciated the fine points of the game and encouraged the visitor to go to the galleries.

There was one city where this display of unfairness was particularly noticeable. Vardon was requested to write his impressions on the American golf and to write a book on the subject. He has now done so. French Battler Held All Titles

Beginning Early, Georges Carpentier Has Held Title of Every Class From Bantam to Heavyweight

PARIS, March 21.—If George Carpentier, the French pugilist, is to win the prize he is reported to have made, the noted Frenchman will have a strenuous task. His opponents are the American, Ford, Jeannette and McGoothey are all well known pugilists, and have won various reports. Any one of the three should give him his hardest fight. The prize is the world's championship. It must be admitted that he has already won the French championship. He is probably the only pugilist who has held a championship in every class from flyweight to heavyweight.

Carpentier began boxing at twelve years of age and has won the French championship of France at thirteen years. As his weight increased he has won the French championship in every class, always heading his division.

After he turned professional Carpentier has won the French championship and managed to win the European middleweight championship. He has also won the Wells, the heavyweight, championship. Yet, despite this unique record, Carpentier has not won the world's championship.

If Hughey Had That Club Now!

Detroit Team of Twenty-Seven Years Ago Battled for an Average of .347-Wow!

DETROIT, Mich., March 21.—Hughie Jennings is down in Gulfport, this spring with one of the most youthful squads of ball players ever sent south by a major league club. Hughie, trying to whip them into a pennant-winning aggregation and he may repeat his 1907-08-09 triumphs—and then he may not. But in any event it is doubtful if he will be able to present to the Detroit City a team like the one he battled to a championship twenty-seven years ago.

That's digging up ancient history to make the comparison, but perhaps there member that Detroit in 1887, then in the National league, had a team on which there was not a player who batted under .300. The team's batting was .347, too. These are facts. Last year the Tigers' batting average was .265. Here is the way they lined up and batted in 1887: C. B. Baldwin, pitcher, .347; C. W. Bennett, catcher, .363; Dan Brouthers, first base, .411; Fred Dunlop, second base, .326; I. Richardson, left field, .363; J. L. White, third base, .341; William Whittle, third base, .340; J. C. Rowan, shortstop, .363; L. Twitchell, left field, .352; Ned Hanlon, center field, .316, and S. L. Thompson, .406.

AT GREAT JUBILEE U. C. T. COUNCIL 18 INSTALLS OFFICERS

Holds Public Installation—Many U. C. T. Ladies Present and Witness the Impressive "Ray of Hope" Lecture

Editor Firing Line:
Atlanta Council 18, U. C. T., gave a Jubilee at their hall Saturday, March 14, at which the election of officers were held. It was one of the greatest meetings I dare say, it was the largest assembling of United Commercial Travelers ever held together at one time in the south.

The committee on arrangement, under the skillful leadership of that noble
United Commercial Traveler, Brother H. N. Fletcher, Jr., issued invitations to all the council, councilors and their wives, and to the great delight of the members of Atlanta 18, the opportunity was graciously accepted by the other councilors, and members of Fulton Council 655, Cascade City council of Athens, Gainesville council of Gainesville; Columbus council of Columbus responded by their presence in great numbers.

Atlanta Council 18, by this move started a precedent that will redound to the great good of our noble order. It was acquainted to a social way with our brothers and their wives and sweethearts and the gracious ladies. God bless them, how nobly did they respond to the invitation—the flowers of our great southern land. It was with great pleasure that we had the opportunity to show these good ladies what our order stands for: how this great and noble order stands ready at all times to take them under its care and protection, like a loving parent.

We gave them the opportunity to hear the "Ray of Hope" lecture. How splendidly was it rendered by our order secretary, Brother R. L. Wallace.
The writer was told by numerous ladies, after the "Ray of Hope" lecture was given, that it was the most magnificent, soul-stirring period of their lives.
Several of the good wives said, "never will I object to my husband being away from me to attend his council meeting, again for never did I think that the order stood for so much for me and my children."

Space will not allow me to tell all the things that happened on Saturday, March 14, but it will go down in the annals of the United Commercial Travelers of the south as one of the greatest U. C. T. meetings ever held.
Grand Councilor H. W. Weir paid us an official visit, and as he always is, was welcomed by the members.
Officers were elected for the year as follows: W. A. Wood, councilor; W. D.
Hart, junior councilor; E. M. Lunceford, secretary and treasurer; H. D.

John Deere Co. Holds Salesmen's Field Meets

Sales Force From Various Branches Gather at Moline and Camp in Tents—A Combination of Vacation and Salesmanship Instruction

The approach of the season for what they term "field meets" draws attention to this unique salesmanship educational plan of one of the largest concerns in the country, the John Deere Plow company, which has a branch in Atlanta.

At a cost of about $50,000 this company holds a series of meetings each summer of the salesmen from their branches throughout the United States, two or three branches sending their salesmen at once, their stay lasting about ten days.

The meetings are held at Moline, Ill., the home of the company's big factory. Quarters in tents, with regulations of much the same sort as in a military camp, and with many facilities for recreation, the meet is a combination of vacation and business.

Lectures to the salesmen are given by experts, the talks being mostly along technical lines regarding the agricultural implements the concern makes. The lecture platform is in the center of the circle of tents that are used for living quarters.

A feature of the daily educational program, which lasts from eight to five, is the demonstration of the company's implements, the actual use in the field being shown.

The following foreword, taken from the program of the last meet attended by the salesmen of the Atlanta branch, is an interesting defense of the "teaching salesmanship" idea.

Why do the best doctors take a postgraduate course every year?
Just answer the question yourself—
Does it profit a seasoned salesman to attend a field meet?

The conventional answer will come to your mind, and it is true that a man never gets too old to learn, but here is another viewpoint.
A man who knows all there is to know about his goods and the art of selling them, has more experience and knowledge than he can use at any one time.
And every successful man must know more than enough to do the things he does.

ATLANTA T. P. A.'S GETTING READY FOR STATE CONVENTION

Will Go to Meeting at Columbus on April 2 With a Large Delegation—Expect Most Delightful Occasion

Post it is preparing to go to the state convention at Columbus on April 2 and 3 with a large and enthusiastic representation. The post is entitled to thirty delegates but there will be many members of Post 2 besides who will attend.

There will also be a large number of T. P. A. ladies from Atlanta who will attend the convention. At its meeting next Saturday night all details of the Columbus trip will be worked out.

The post is also going prepared to resist any move to have the state headquarters removed from Atlanta.

"We are in a position to appreciate the desire of the Savannah post to have the state headquarters," say the members of Post 2, "but we think that the order is too large and too well established a thing in Georgia for its members to sacrifice the good of the whole organization to the ambitions of one post. Atlanta is the center of legislation and of railroad activity in the state and it being with these things that the order especially deals it would be most inconvenient and expensive for the headquarters to be moved elsewhere."

All T. P. A.'s are looking forward to the meeting at Columbus with a great deal of pleasure. The city has a widespread reputation for the hearty handling of the headquarters to be moved elsewhere."

WHITE HICKORY CO. HAS MANY EARLY ORDERS

Dealers Want Deliveries Now
Instead of July or August,
as Heretofore

Fifty per cent of the orders taken by the White Hickory Manufacturing company since January 1 are for early spring delivery compared to 10 per cent in previous years.

A reflection of good general conditions through the south is the cause to which the company attributes this situation, the merchants handling their wagons asking the earliest deliveries because of the farmers generally being in better credit standing than last year.

Heretofore, at least for the last several years, the great bulk of the delivery from the White Hickory factory to the merchants has been during July and August.

Sales are reported active not only on farm wagons but also on city drays, the auto truck as yet showing no appreciable effect on their business on the latter.

ready made up covering fitted for same.

BINDER FRAME CO. WILL CONTINUE ITS MFG. PLANT HERE

Reconsiders Decision to Abolish Atlanta Branch on Request of Its Many Patrons
Throughout Southeast

The Binder Frame Manufacturing company are to continue their Atlanta branch.

The company's recent announcement that they intended to close out here and serve their customers in this territory from their Chicago headquarters brought many protests from their patrons who requested that they continue carrying a stock in Atlanta to obviate the danger of shipping from Chicago.

Joseph Binder, president of the company, has been in Atlanta for several days making arrangements for the reorganization of the local branch.

J. N. Binder, who has for several years been in charge of the business here and has been successful in developing the Atlanta mail order business to good proportions, leaves today for Chicago where he will be associated with the Binder company.

A new stock of goods has been ordered to Atlanta from the Chicago factory.
Only temporary arrangements for the management of the Atlanta business have been made so far, a definite announcement on this point to be made later.

L. E. Huguley, of the Huguley Oil company, has been spending several days at his Jacksonville branch.

Frank Coffey, with John Silver & Co. is here for his first visit to headquarters since the February merchandise week.

A. T. Moreland, South Alabama traveler of the John Deere company, is in the city for a few days. A. T. Stevens, east central Georgia traveler, and C. A. Wilson, special plow man, were also visitors at headquarters last week.

That was some job they handled the stock clerks at John Silver & Co. to fill last week's order for 6,000 yards of goods from one of the state institutions. This firm has been securing a number of goods from various public institutions during months.

A. R. Ibb-general traffic manager of the John Deere Plow company, was a visitor last week at the Atlanta branch.

C. G. Crow, who looks after the retail end of the business at the wholesale grain house of W. S. Duncan company, is getting something of a name for himself there as "efficiency engineer" through several clever plans he has worked out.

C. C. Phillips, South Georgia salesman for the Capital City Tobacco company, is in for the week end.

S. D. Jones, the Mount Carriage and Buggy company traveler, was in for a short visit to headquarters last week.

The approach of warm weather means the start of blanket talk at the Rosefeld company. All of the travelers have their new samples in this line.

E. F. Malone, of the Capital City Tobacco company, is likely to pay a good "keep-acquainted" call on his company's customers during the next several weeks, this being the most plausible reason he can give himself for being about in that new Jeffrey car he has. He takes great pride in his new machine, but he is not treating much about the present state of his golf game.

Ed Stroud, of the E. L. Adams company, was called to Henry county last week to attend the funeral of his father.

Mrs. L. Haggie, representative of Joseph Tetley & Co., blenders of Tetley's tea, was a visitor Saturday at Pat's Stamps.

W. W. Scott says his south Georgia customers can look for him down their way this week. He spent last week in Atlanta.

C. W. Bohler, of the McClure Ten-cent company, visited the McClure stores at Union and Greenwood, S. C. last Wednesday and Thursday.

H. T. GUNN, TYING THE BULL OUTSIDE.

SINGER PLEASED WITH CANNED FRUITS SALE

Has Big Trade on Gold Bar and Silver Bar California Fruits

"We have been having a tremendous sale this season of Gold Bar and Silver Bar California canned fruits," said H. T. Gunn, of the H. L. Singer company. "Up to the present time this season we have handled ten thousand cases of these goods."

"Both of these brands are in the Journal and at label content, which has stimulated the demand for them to a wonderful extent. It is indeed remarkable interest that is being displayed in this contest."

"In fact, we feel like the contest has done a real service for the people of this community, for it has brought to the notice of the housewives of this city canned fruits of the high standard of Gold and Silver Bar, and we feel that after the good ladies have used fruits of this high quality, they will never be content to use anything less toothsome and delicious."

"The contest, I think in this way, has been an education in pure food values for the people of Atlanta. We know that our food products have been introduced to all classes of our citizens, and that they all have found what their merits are, and we are sure that these products have won many lasting friends."

"The Atlanta Baking company is giving away a coupon with each loaf of its Uncle Sam bread. They Told Merchant to "Tie It Outside" When He Started Praising Goods to Salesman Himself

This is perhaps the first time the ceremony of "tying that bull outside" has been a literal, definite act, and shown as such beyond any doubt. It is usually, of course, some salesman using bluff instead of reason with his prospect that gets such an order handed him but no salesman is ever known to have followed the order—once acquired, the habit becomes too deep rooted.

But it is a merchant, H. T. Gunn, manager of the Adair Pharmacy, of Adair, Ga., who is the actor in this little drama shown in the above picture. He was praising a salesman's goods to the salesman himself, such an unusual and surprising thing on the part of a merchant that every one in hearing insisted on it.

The illustration was made a few days ago at the time of a visit of C. G. Phillips, sales manager of the Capital City Tobacco company, to Adair, and it was to him that Mr. Gunn was found in his praise of the Una Vara cigar which Mr. Phillips sells.

Those ardent folks who want Southern Commerce and Southern Industry to sweep the country, don't—alas! always prove their faith by their works.

We're not kicking; but what's the use of working up a lot of big statistics for publication, with the idea of sweeping the country, when the money that ought to go into Home Factories is spent in far-away markets?

Yes, we are kicking, too. On second thought, we think we've got reason. If our factories here in Georgia didn't produce goods that could stack up with any in the country, we'd probably behave à la Brer Rabbit—lay low and say nuffin.

If our prices and facilities for getting out the stuff weren't just as satisfactory as the prices and facilities of the remote-from-home manufacturers, we'd content ourselves with working on the proposition until we got it jam up and THEN talk.

But it IS jam up.

We can compete in a fair field with the best in America.

We can give you the VALUES—isn't that what you want?

We are prepared to demonstrate to the Merchants of the South, at any time, what we claim for our products.

Then why shouldn't we have the business of the loyal and the prudent dealers whose trade and whose profits come from the people of this region in which we all live?

Why not begin the great job of sweeping the country by doing the dining room floor?

We don't know how you stand on the votes-for-women question, Mister Dealer. But whether you're pro or con, we'll just be willing to bet that you're in favor of the general proposition of letting the women BEGIN AT HOME.

It's good sense. It's sound economics. It's educational. It's useful. It's profitable. It's RIGIT.

We are everlastingly in favor of sweeping the country with the broom of Southern enterprise.

But we are eternally committed to the proposition of starting the good work AT HOME.

Now, then, that's the main point—in theory and in belief.

As to the practice of it—we're right on the job.

Our capital, our energies, our ideas, our good red blood—everything we have—is interested in the business of manufacturing goods—HERE AT HOME.

We're putting the best we've got into the upbuilding of our community.

What we want is the co-operation of the Merchants of the section in which we all live.

That's reasonable, isn't it?

And the Merchant who overlooks the savings that are possible to him through our products, is overlooking something vital to his own interests.

Don't do it, Merchants. Get it into your mind that YOU are absolutely as much the gainer in this proposition as we are.

Make a start THIS WEEK. Don't put off. Write to us. Order a line of our stuff—if only to try out what we've told you about it.

Get right. Do as Dad told vote-seeking Dorothy: "Start with the dining room floor." Buy HOME MANUFACTURED THINGS.
